Headline:
Cloudy with some spells of rain and drizzle.

Today:
A cloudy, wet start for many with fog shrouding the hills and a brisk breeze along the coast. Occasional mainly light rain and drizzle will continue throughout the day, with the best of any drier interlude in the far south. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Tonight:
The cloudy, damp weather continues for much of tonight with patchy rain and drizzle in places. Drier in the south by morning with perhaps a few clear spells. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Monday:
Patchy rain across Cumbria early on Monday morning should clear with all parts seeing some drier and brighter weather for a time. Turning cloudy and wet again during the afternoon. Maximum temperature 16 deg C (61 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:
Unsettled over the next few days with spells of rain or heavy showers interspersed by some drier, brighter interludes. Often windy, but staying mild.
